OOM PAUL REFUSES.

England for a Court of Inquiry-He I roposes New Terms.

LONDON, Aug. 22 .- There is no longer any doubt that President Kiuger has refused to submit to the demands of Mr. Chamberlain for the appointment of a court of inquiry. He may have done so diplomatically or hedgingly. But that his answer is regarded by the British government as tantamount to positive refusal is now an established at fact. The colonial office is normally non committal, but there are other evidences which amply justify the

The report that President Kruger has proposed new terms is somewhat verified by the guarded comment of the colonial office officials and the irritability displayed there. There is not the slightest doubt that they now believe war is the only way to settle the controversy. Mr. Goebel in his speech at Harrodsburg on Monday last charged that John Young Brown had used efforts to become the nominee of the Louisville convention. He referred to a statement in the Times on the same date as that on which Goebel was nominated, in which attention was called to the possibility of the convention refusing to adopt dropping resolution. The article stated that John Young Brown's name was being heard as a dark horse candidate for Governor before the convention, that many believed Mr. Goebel would, in an ex tremity, throw his strength to Brown, and that many delegates from Western Kentucky stood ready to vote for Brown as a compromise candidate for the nomintion.

Mr. Goebel, in his speech at Harrodsburg, declared that the pub- 54; of Lewis Rogers 32. They lication in The Times was brought averaged about 1,400 pounds and about by a request from Brown to the price 41/2 and 5c.-[Paris News. Mr W. N. Haldeman, conveyed through Mr. C. C. McChord,

C. Mc- lamb crop fell short of last year to revise the statutes.

"Let me repeat. I charge that on the day the Louisville convention made its nomination for Governor, almost a week after everything had been accomplished that is now complained of by John Young Brown, this same John Young Brown procured the publication of this article in his effort to bring about his own nomination. And I want to know, if that convention could nominate John young Brown, why couldn't it nominato me? Does he mean that he was the only men in the Commonwealth fit to be the Democratic nominee for the high position of Governor? This state of fact shows that not only John Young Brown, but all others whose names were mentioned in that convention were willing to accept and eager to get the nomination. And it seems to me that this should stop all the complaint about the proceedings at Louisville. W. N. Haldeman, President of the Courier-Journal Company, was the man to whom John Young Brown sent to procure the nomination. What were their relations, that John Young Brown should send to him for that publication?"

SUNKHAZER FLIES OF MAINE

Worse Than Jersey Mosquitoes and Kissing Bugs Have No Chance with Them.

Since reading in the newspapers of the kissing bug and his doings all the people in rural Maine have taken to capturing bugs and insects of all sorts and bringing the specimens to town for examination by newspaper men and naturalists. Countless are the kinds of bugs that have been taken to Bangor in bottles, boxes and preserve jars, and the captors all seem to be sorely disappointed when told that instead of the genuine kisser they have a moth killer, a lacewinged fly, or something quite common and harmless.

A man came from Veazie to Bangor the winged fly, or something quite common and harmless.

A man came from Veazie to Bangor the other day with a ferocious-looking bug corked up in a preserve jar and claimed the credit of having captured the first kissing bug in that part of the country. It was not the famous kissing bug that he had, but a native bug somewhat resembling a small lobster with wings.

"I don't care a hang," declared the Veazie man, when told that he must try again. "These fellers kin lick the stuffin' out of Sunkhazers, and that's what none of your common bugs kin do."

Not many people living far away from Bangor know what a "Sunkhazer" is like. It is a ferocious big fly that infests the flats and meadows about Sunkhaze deadwater, a place in the Penobscot river where the water is slack and where millions of logs are rafted. The Sunkhazers are the pest of the loggers, upon whom they feast to their heart's content, and nothing can drive them away. They are four times the size of the famed mosquitoes of Jersey, and any Maine man will back one of them against a lozen kissing bugs in a fair stand-up fight. Maine folks have, probably, no kissing bugs, but so long as the Sunkhazers survive they will not feel lonesome.—N. Y. Sun.

Cody Called for a Cut.

Col. Cody, the eminent scout, helped to build a church at North Platte, and was persuaded by his wife and daughter to accompany them to the opening. The minister gave out the hymn, which commenced with the words: "Oh, for ten thousand tongues to sing," etc. The organist, who played by ear, started the tune in too high a key and had to try again. A second attempt ended like the first in failure. "Oh, for ten thousand tongues to sing my great—" came the opening words for the third time, followed by a squeak from the organ and a relapse into painful silence. Cody could contain himself no longer, and blurted out: "Start it at five thousand, and mebbe some of the rest of us can get in." — San Francisco Wave.

Mr. Bryan gave figures to show that England and other nations do not colonize rapidly, and added:

Even if we succeed in killing off all the natives you cannot get young Americans to go there. They prefer to live in low and Nebraska. The profit will not go to the right people, but to investment syndicates. Even if any man is willing to trade for pottage and does not have a taste for birthright he had better investigate the pottage.

THE ISSUES OF 1896.

W. J. Bryan Says the Chicago Platform Will Stand.

The Silver Champion Addresses the Democrats of Iowa at Des Moines - Republicans Arraigned.

William J. Bryan was in great demand at the state demogratic convention, Des Moines, ca the 16th. He spoke to an audience of 6,000 persons in the Auditorium, and then delivered a second address to 4,000 more in the tabernacle. His remarks were thoroughly in line with his earlier declarations and with the position taken by the state central committee and the party managers, who are anxious to reunite the party if possible by throwing overboard sixteen to one.

Mr. Bryan first reviewed the record of the republican party, accusing it of putting the dollar above the man. He steed in action and shown us exactly then took up the silver question, saying prosperity did not set in until six that when he runs he doubles up like months after the election, when the Klondike gold mines began to be heard from. "The republicans who claim that times The republicans who claim that times are better because the balance of trade is in favor of the United States," he said, "give away their own position and admit the democratic view of the quantitative character of money is correct. The financiers of England control the English government, through England the rest of Europe, and England control the English government, through Europe the United States.

"The 6,500,000 democratic voters of the party in 1896 were for silver. The 7,000,000 republican voters were for a platform which called for international bimetallism. Only the Palmer and Buckner voters were for the gold standard—less than one per cent.—yet now the Iowa republican platform goes a step farther and is mainly for gold alone. Moreover, the republicans threaten to retire the greenbacks, publicans threaten to retire the greenbacks. though they have never been before the people on that issue."

The speaker next went after the trusts. The money trust, he said, is the biggest trust of all. He was glad the traveling men were fighting the industrial trusts now, but sorry they had not seen the logic of events in 1896 and helped to fight the money trust then.

"The men who make trust speeches and coplaud them." he asserted, "are bankers. A new danger of the trusts has just been developed. When a trust gets control of all the factories in a given line and the hands in one factory strike the trust will close that one establishment and make its goods at the others. When the workmen at that place are starved to the point of working for any wages offered that factory will be reopened and a lockout to reduce wages will be inaugurated at another factory."

Mr. Bryan closed by a lengthy discussion of imperialism.

"The difference," he said, "between a republic and an empire is this: A republic needs an army of 25,000 for 70,000,000 people. An empire needs four times that large an army, when 10,000,000 population is added. This suits the young men who get fat jobs

"As the Tagals are largely Christians and our native allies are largely Mohammedans we ought to ask the sultan to help us to subdue the Christian insurgents.

"This government ought to make a decfaration of good intentions toward the Philippines, as it did toward Cuba. The president ought to have done so, or if he did not have the power should have asked congress for it. Now he might call a specific property of the congress for it. cial session to ask for the power. Cleveland called a special session to repeal the Sher-man act, and McKinley called one. A special session now would cost much money, but not nearly so much as the continuance of the war.

-The republican party has the attorney-general and all the machinery for enforcing the existing anti-trust laws. If these laws are insufficient that party has the president and both houses of the next congress and it can enact all necessary laws for their suppression or control. The last congres was also republican, and nothing wa done. If, as Attorney-General Grigg contends, congress has no power pass an effective anti-trust law, ther remains the remedy pointed out by M Havemeyer-namely, tear down th tariff wall and let the outside world en ter into competition with the trusts.-Baltimore Sun.

-A true American revolts at th idea of ruling a subject race, for the in stinct of freedom tells him that, wheth er right or not, it is deteriorating. W see now that "benevolent assimilation means iron rules, and we are afraid of it, for we know that enslaving a natio is as dangerous as enslaving an ind vidual. But how can we avoid estab lishing virtual slavery in our cor quered islands? The more we look a this wretched Filipino business th worse it seems .- Hartford Times.

-Mr. McKinley will be quite read to refer the Philippine problem to cor gress when it meets, although he di not consult that body with reference t his war of conquest. It is a peculiarit of this administration that it is onl willing to take congress into its conf dence after it has mixed things so that it can't straighten them out .- Colum bus Press-Post.

PICTURED HORSES.

Artists' Conceptions of the Noble Steed of the Present Are Not Always Natural.

The artists' horse of to-day is an altogether different creature from the artists' horse of a century ago. In years gone by his neck was arched, his rump well rounded and his whole bearing pompous and melodramatic. Frequently in the good old days he raised one foreleg like a setter dog or reared on both hind legs after the fashion of a grizziy bear. But things have changed now, and the pictorial, or marble, steed has altered his quondam poses for brisker and more businesslike attitudes. While the modern metamorphosis may lack the heroic features which formerly characterized our good old friend, we believe the artistic horse of the present day is much more accurate. They say the change is due almost entirely to the revelations of the instantaneous camera. This infallible portrait maker has caught the how he looks. It has always shown us a jackknife and throws grace to the winds. It has likewise demonstrated the fact that old-time artists had erroneous ideas as to how the brute handled his feet and used his legs. Indeed, photography has shown us so many things about moving horses that strict accuracy in their portraiture is almost ridiculous.

SAVING SILVER AT THE MINT. Iron Tools Eaten Away by Acid to

Preserve Their Precious

Conting.

Perhaps the most interesting scheme or the recovery of waste silver at the mint is that applied to the utensils of the melting gang, says the New Orleans

Times-Democrat. The big iron stirring rods, the dippers, the strainers and the ladles that come in contact with the molten metal are laid aside at intervals and sent downstairs. They are covered with what looks like brown rust, but is really oxidized silver. Suppose, to digress a moment, one desired to get a coat of paint off the outside of a house. In such an event the plan of scraping away the house and leaving the shell of paint standing would be regarded as somewhat eccentric, yet that is substantially the method adopted at the mint.

The implements are placed in bahs of sulphuric acid, which attacks the iron or steel, but leaves the silver untouched.

They are very curious, these fragile easts. Their surface is a sort of natural filigree, honeycombed with innumerable fantastic perforations. The reproduction of a bolt or screw is oftentimes as perfect as an electrotype, but they are hurried remorselessly back to the crucible and thus pursue their cycle until at last they find their Karma in a minted coin.

must see him, that he was no ordinary person, that, in fact, he was a member of the house of lords. The servant went away and returned with the message: "The president says he cannot see you. and adds that he is a cattle herder."

Penny Postage Success.

As a result of the penny postage scheme between the British colonies it has become necessary to extend the facilities of the general post office in London. The volume of Canadian business alone has doubled since the first of the year.

BARGAINS IN TOMBSTONES.

Advanced Methods in the Foneral Business Adopted Near & City Cemetery.

The approaches to all the cemeteries about New York are fined with stoneyards, where headpieces may be had on short notice and in a great variety of styles to suit the varying tastes and degrees of grief or sentiment on the part of the survivors. Tombstones are such cumbersome and heavy ware that they are displayed at the very gates of the graveyards for convenience in making prompt deliveries. The de-mand for them is reasonably steady, and it would not strike the casual observer that there was much stimulation to an eager competition in the business of supplying them.

It is the more surprising, therefore, says the New York Sun, to come across a job lot of headstones at bargain prices. Out in an eastern suburb of the city on Long Island a wheeling tourist came upon an odd spectacle of a markdown sale of tombstones the other day. All goods were marked in plain figures in the regular and much approved manner of the great department stores. The prices were attractive and the manner of their exhibition was enough to tempt one to lay in a supply against the time when in the course of nature he might need something in this line.

Lettered in white paint were all styles, shapes and sizes in granite monuments-plain, polished and ornate. "This style, $20;" "Very fine at $48;" "A beauty, only $14.50," and "Reduced to $30," were some of the legends. The stonecutter stood, like a floorwalker, among his wares, wearing an inviting smile, while a rival dealer across the way looked on with scorn all over his grimy face at the advanced business methods of his neighbor.

WANTED ST. PAUL'S ADDRESS.

A Turkish Censor Who Was After the Anthor of Epistles to the Galatians.

The Athens Asty reports that a Greek benevolent society in the Turkish capital recently issued a printed appeal to the Hellenic community in Stamboul for some special charitable object. The appeal contained a citation from one of the epistles of St. Paul to the Galatians. Two days after the publication of the circular a commissary of police from the censor's department called upon the printer and demanded the address of St. Paul, who was to be charged with the public utterance of seditous and politically provocative language. The printer at first was inclined to laugh outright at the absurdity of the request and indictment, but as it is always a little risky to venture upon a pleasantry with a Turkish official he sedately replied that St. Paul, the author of the objectionable citation, had been dead for more than 18 centuries. This ruffled the gravity of the police commissary, who angrily exclaimed: How dare you attempt such impudent cajolery with me?" and forthwith ar-President Kruger recently refused an rested the printer. Extraordinary as Interview to a celebrated Englishman, it may appear, the reiteration of the had an equally exasperating effect on that intelligent official, and the unfortunate typographer was locked up for his "perverse contumacy." It was only after the lapse of three days and on the urgent intervention of the Greek patriarch that the printer was re-

RATHER EMBARRASSING.

How a Philadelphia Boy's Imprompt Amen Caused a Sensation in Court.

Attorney John A. Ward, one of the popular members of the Philadelphia oar, says the Inquirer, of that city, recalls at times an incident in one of the courts which happened shortly after he had been admitted to practice law, and which he tells with scarcely the shadow of, smile. It was when court was just opening for the morning session that a boy, sitting by his side, heard the usual prayer made by the crier. The lad seemed surprised, until, as the last words were uttered by the official, Ward, without a thought as to the result, punched the boy in the side with his elbow and told him to say Amen. Quick as a flash came the response from the boy in a tone of voice that at first startled lawyers and spectators and disturbed the equilibrium of the presiding judge. When the instant of astonishment had passed men and women who were present laughed lightly as all eyes were directed toward the lad and Ward. "I was too confused to do anything." says the latter, "except to look in any direction but at the youth, who seemed to be appealing to me to know why everybody was looking at us. I still say 'amen' myself when prayer requires it, but I have never told anyone else to do so since the occurrence in court, and I never will."

Lived Without a Stomach.

"Some time ago," says the Scientific American, "we described the remarkable operation of Doctor Schlatter, in which he extirpated the stomach of a female patient. It is interesting to know that she lived 14 months after the operation, and that there was no difficulty in keeping up the nutrition of the patient. The food taken passed directly from the aesophagus to the intestines, and the intestinal digestion was sufficient to satisfy her wants. This was shown by the long continuance of her life after the operation."

CHRONIC WEATHER KICKERS.

The Lunchroom Philosopher Gives His Views on Mankind in General.

"D'je ever notice," said the lunchroom philosopher, "what a never-contented lot o' pinheads we are? Now, it seems no time at all since I was a-rarin' around and kickin' pinheads we are? Now, it seems no time at all since I was a-rarin' around and kickin' like blazes because the leaves and crocuses didn't appear on schedule time. I believe I blamed my wife for it. I was so dead sick and tired of chilly blasts and my olive green top-coat that I sort o' held her personally responsible for the backwardness of the lilacs and daisies and pansies. I told her that I wanted red-hot, sizzling weather, and lots of it—that for all I cared a ding the sun could go on sizzling forever. Now I find that I'm sick of the summer. I find myself longing to hear the leaves swirling in the ditches and to have the fire lighted in the latrobe. I find that I want to take brisk walks in the sharp, chilly air. I find that I'm hungry for buckwheat cakes and sausage. I'm tired o' beer. I'm weary of car riding out in the country. Durn it all—I want snow three feet high, blizzards of it, and I want the theaters and the hot Scotches! And along toward the end of next February I'll be chewing the rag, in the same old way, about moving to some tropical country, where I can get warmed up and be fanned by balmy zephyrs, and all that kind o' bleat. We don't know what we want. We even get sick of seasons that we long for, much as kids get sick of their painted Noah's arks or tin soldiers."—Washington Post.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The Secret Service has just unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected for imitation, notably Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for disorders like indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and general debility.
